

Final Stipend Payment

If a student defends his or her dissertation before the 15th of the month, the stipend will be terminated at the end of that month. If the student defends on or after the 15th, the next month's stipend will be the final month the student is paid, at the discretion of their advisor. Students are encouraged to speak to their advisors directly about how they should be paid as they complete their graduate work.

If an advisor wishes to pay the student for an additional month, beyond what has been explained above, the advisor must notify David Jablon via email as early as possible. David can be reached at dmsaccounting@hms.harvard.edu.

For administrative reasons, a stipend cannot be issued to a student after his/her graduation date.
